BELLE GLADE — PAHOKEE, FL.

Pahokee's new mayor: Noma Norman

By AILSA DEWING

PAHOKEE — By a vote of 370 to 277, city voters chose Noma Norman for mayor over Wynona Cummings in Tuesday's run-off election, to succeed Duncan Padgett who retired after 20 years in office.

Norman, a 51-year-old retired teacher, had served two terms as city councilman before entering the race for mayor.

On May 6, Norman and Miss Cummings led the field of four candidates seeking the mayor's post thus eliminating former council president Robert Welty and Mead Maxwell from the running but with neither candidate obtaining a majority.

A total 663 votes were cast in Tuesday's balloting, 217 less than in the May 6 election and indicating that fewer than 50 percent of the registered voters took part in the run-off voting.

As his first official act in office, Mayor Norman proclaimed May 27 as Duncan Padgett Day. A testimonial dinner is planned that day honoring Pahokee's longtime mayor.

In swearing-in ceremonies following the election and preceding a reorganization meeting of city council, Betty McCoy was re-installed as city clerk, Carmen Salvatore as police chief and George Rashley as councilman. All three were uncontested in seeking re-election. Also sworn into office were Hugo Raineri, uncontested in his bid for a council seat, and Jon Mock, who defeated two candidates for councilman in the May 6 election.

In his farewell remarks to council, made before an audience which filled the council chamber, retiring Mayor Padgett cited some of the projects "the following mayor would inherit" and thanked council for its "wonderful cooperation."

Meeting then in regular session the newly-formed council elected W.E. McKinstry as president and Curtis Miners, president pro tem.

Council assignments followed with Rashley remaining to oversee utilities; Miners, street department; McKinstry, police; Raineri, parks; and Mock, administration. In separate voting, council approved assignment of the fire department under administration and inspection under police.

street department; McKinstry, police; Raineri, parks; and Mock, administration. In separate voting, council approved assignment of the fire department under administration and inspection under police.

As its first order of business council approved purchase of a $546 emergency containment kit, standby equipment in the event of any future chlorine leak at the city's water treatment plant. The city recently faced an emergency situation when a valve failed on a chlorine storage tank at the plant and a replacement valve had to be obtained from Belle Glade.

In other business, council reconsidered its earlier request that attorney Michael Stauder draw up a lease law for the city following the county's law after Stauder reported that the city was already covered by the county ordinance adopted in 1979.

Council requested that Dennis Moore, Palm Beach County director of animal control, attend its May 20 session and clarify the city's position in relation to the county procedure.

REINS OF OFFICE are passed as Pahokee's outgoing Mayor Duncan Padgett, left, swears in the new mayor, Noma Norman.

Election Day custom may be revived

PAHOKEE — In the future, Election Day will be different — it will be more like the good old days.

Folks who were chagrined this year at being kept off the fire station lawn where they've traditionally gathered during elections will probably be able to return next Election Day.

The practice was disallowed this year in keeping with the state election code which doesn't permit assembling or picketing within 100 yards of a polling place.

However, council has learned from its attorney, Michael Stauder, that a city ordinance can supersede the state ruling.

On motion of Councilman George Rashley, Stauder has been asked to draw up a city ordinance that will allow people to congregate as before under the trees in front of the municipal building.

The exact distance is to be measured off but Council President W.E. McKinstry defined it roughly as the line that was previously observed.

"By gentlemen's agreement," a line just west of the front door of city hall. And extending in an arc around the front of the single polling place.

Merz resigns

SOUTH BAY — Charles Merz, city manager for the past 15 months, Tuesday night submitted his resignation to Mayor Donald Tanner. The resignation reportedly is effective May 20.

Bad water has everyone 'reaching for the bottle'

BELLE GLADE — Tap water with the odor and taste of dead leaves and mildew, and described variously as "overpowering" and "unacceptable" sent city residents on a stampede for the bottled variety over the weekend but was expected to be corrected by Tuesday evening.

Several grocery and convenience stores reported they were sold out of bottled water by Monday morning and city officials said they received a number of calls from people complaining about the musty odor and wondering if it was safe to drink. Public Works Director Kenneth Retterer, who was given the newly created position of Public Utilities Director in charge of water and sewer services only in an unrelated personnel shuffle at noon Monday, said the problem arose when the City Water Department had to clean its settling ponds over the weekend.

The taste and odor, he said, were the result of suspended solid particles, largely organic, which are normally in the water when it comes into the city treatment plant. Retterer said polymers are injected into the water at the plant and the water is then normally given six hours in the two settling ponds. The particle-holding polymers then settle to the bottom of the ponds before the water is piped around the city.

About every six months the ponds are filled up, he said, and have to be drained and cleaned, a task which takes about five days.

That leaves only one settling pond and Retterer said the water only has half the usual time in the settling ponds as long as the plant continues producing its maximum of six million gallons per day.

Retterer said the water demand has remained high during the cleaning period because, unexpectedly, Quaker Oats has been using some 2.4 million gallons per day, "and that's unheard of," Retterer said.

To aggravate the situation, this is the time of year algae begins blooming and there is a particularly heavy growth this year, as is evident in area canals. There was a similar odor and taste two weeks ago when the first settling pond was cleaned but the situation wasn't as bad then.

Retterer said there had been a number of calls Monday at the Public Works Department. He said there was no arguing against the bad odor and flavor but stressed the water's purity remained excellent, leaving only an "aesthetic problem."

That aesthetic problem was enough to cause about a dozen people to complain to Commissioner Tom Altman.

"These are people who don't make a habit of complaining," Altman said, "but they were really upset. One person said the smell was so bad that when he finished his shower, he smelled worse than before he took it."

Ground is broken for auditorium

BELLE GLADE — Ground was broken Saturday and the first work was to begin this week on the construction of a new auditorium at Palm Beach Junior College-Campus.

Dignitaries representing the college, Palm Beach County, Belle Glade and Pahokee, put their feet and hands on shovels to break the first ground as a crowd of those interested in the auditorium and the college gathered round.

"A lot of people will take credit for this, including me," said Dr. Philip O. Lichtblau, chairman of the PBJC board of trustees, "but the two who deserve the most credit are (Trustee) Dolly Hand and Dr. Edward Eissey, president of the college."

Dr. Eissey said the people in the Glade, "are finally receiving our due from the Palm Beach County educational system. It was my promise that you would have this cultural and educational center and the edifice behind you (the existing college building on the campus) and a chance for a first class educational system."

Eissey said the auditorium isn't the last of the plans, however, and a project is already on the drawing boards for such added improvements as physical education.

THROWING DIRT for the new Palm Beach Junior College-Glades auditorium, during groundbreaking ceremonies Saturday, were Trustee Board Chairman Dr. Philip O. Lichtblau, Trustee Hissetta Dyson, former PBJC President Dr. Harold C. Manor, current President Dr. Edward Eissey, Trustee Dolly Hand and Glades Provost Dr. Cecil Conley.

City sewer service cited

BELLE GLADE — Two city employees were terminated and a third was reprimanded Monday during a personnel shakeup in the wake of a letter from the Palm Beach County Health Department which cited the city's sewer department with ten violations of the state law.

City Manager Robert Sanders, who was out of town in his honeymoon when the complaint arrived last week, told city commissioners in a workshop called on the citation Monday night that the administration has already begun correcting the situation as much as possible.

The letter from the Health Department was dated April 25 but wasn't received by the city until May 1. Public Works Director Kenneth Retterer answered the letter on May 7, outlining what the city was doing to correct the situation at that time. Sanders said Monday night he would write his own letter Tuesday, outlining the city's further corrective steps.

Among those further changes was a reassignment of Retterer to the position of Public Utilities Director. This change was recommended by Sanders several weeks ago and the commissioners approved it at that time. Retterer's new duties will be confined to the city's water and sewer systems.

Sanders will assume the balance of Retterer's duties for the rest of this year.

giving him direct responsibility for the Departments of Streets, Sanitation, Buildings and Grounds and the City Garage. Former Public Works Director Ron Sigmon has been re-employed, Sanders said, and is expected to assume the position of Public Works Director Monday, a position to be on a par with Retterer's new position.

Both Retterer and Sanders said at different times Monday the move was a good one and will give Retterer more time to concentrate on the city's water and sewer problems. Sanders said Retterer was working on nothing else for six or seven hours Monday.

The primary problem noted in the Health Department's citation was flow and infiltration (I&I) of the system by ground water and storm runoff. Sanders said that during normal (dry) weather, the plant operates well but every time there's a rain, the collection system "washes out" the plant. He said the situation was known by both city and county personnel and he had been notified by the Health Department that they would make their next inspection following a heavy rain when the problem was at its height. The inspection was made April 9, 10 and 11.

The citation said the problems included overload.

getting the funding for the auditorium. Mrs. Hand said somebody had called her Saturday morning asking her if she was happy. She said she was both happy and humble because she remembered the number of people who helped to make the auditorium a reality. There were several people who made contributions toward the auditorium, including the Palm Beach County Commission, with its $400,000 in donations, the Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative and George Wedgworth for their work in getting the campus site and providing the $78,000 initial donations which has grown to $100,000 by now and was used for seed money for the auditorium, United States Sugar Corporation for co-operating with the college, the Cooperative and the state in trading the property where the college is sited, and the state for its work in providing the property and a two-for-one matching grant for the auditorium.

The 500-seat auditorium is a college-community project, with a $32,000 donation by the City of Belle Glade helping to pay for the cost, and is intended for use not only by the college but by the community in general. That community includes not only western Palm Beach County but Hendry and Glades Counties from which the college also draws students. One of the speakers was Dr. Harold C. Manor, the president of PBCJC who preceded Dr. Elsey. Dr. Manor who instigated the Glades campus, said he knew better than some about the difficulty in getting the funding for the auditorium. Another speaker was Theodore Townsend, president of the student body at the Glades campus. He said the students appreciate the "swiftness" of this endeavor and said there is no question but the auditorium will be an asset and benefit for both the college and the community. Other speakers included county Commissioners Bill Bailey and Frank Foster, Belle Glade Mayor Ralph Kirk, Pahokee Mayor Duncan Padgett, PBJC-Glades Provost Dr. Cecil Conley, contractor Wallace Lutz and architect John Marion.

Superwalk pledge party

BELLE GLADE - The more than 100 walkers in last Saturday's Eighth Annual March of Dimes Glades Superwalk and anyone who wants to make a donation are invited to a collection party Saturday at 1 p.m. in the municipal civic center.

At that time pledges will be collected from the walkers (including the first sponsored dog in the event) according to Roy Rausch, Glades coordinator for the walk-a-thon sponsored by the Belle Glade Lions Club.

The total amount to be raised through pledges has not yet been determined, Rausch said, because records of how many kilometers each walker are not yet complete.

He explained that each Marine needed self-confidence in speaking up against the evils of prejudice, and this four hours of "fisticuffs" would provide that quality.

He admitted that he had never been in association with Marines, so I educated him to the fact that there is nothing more self-confident than a young Marine who has finished his recruit training, learned to be a Marine infantryman (Grunt), and wore his uniform with the implied threat that should you even think negative thoughts about him and his Marine Corps, he'd tear your head off! Needless to say, that $250,000 was a waste. That was the initial cost only however. The costs in implementing (or trying to implement that program is incalculable).

I would imagine our little waste of a quarter of a million dollars was really something compared to some of the larger consultant fees for governmental agencies seeking "expert" advice.

Let me finish this by explaining a fact of fiscal life in governmental agencies. It is a cardinal rule that you spend every dime given to you in the budget, and then scream for more. Should you have the bad judgement to have a surplus at the end of a budget year, your succeeding budgets will be based upon your frugality regardless of the need for more funds in future times.

That is part of the false economy practiced by the government.

I was ordered once to spend several thousand dollars I didn't need. I had a small detachment of Marines in a rather affluent duty station. At the end of the budget year, I had enough power lawnmowers that each Marine had his own assigned to him.

What there is about Thlathlo Tumka

By Bill Lampton
Florida Game and Freshwater Fish Commission

There's just something about Buckhead Ridge. I don't know what I've ever done to the good folks of Leland Pierce's township to deserve the foul luck that befell me there, but whatever it was I promise never to do it again.

What brought all this on was the annual Thlathlo Tumka Outdoor Writer's Flyfishing Tournament. The 14-year-old brainchild of Lake Okauchobee's top promoter, Harold DeTar, Thlathlo Tumka is designed to create publicity on the lake's sport fishery and more especially, the possibilities of flyfishing the big pond.

That's good news to the fish campers, models, marines and other businesses oriented toward fishing. It's also good news to all the other businesses in the communities around the lake that derive portions of their income indirectly from fishing.

But while it may be good news to most, the lake's north end had me jinxed. And herein lies the story. Eighteen writers, many among the top outdoor scribes in the state, met at the Buckhead Ridge Marina on Sunday, April 26, to draw for their guides, participants in a flyfishing contest and in general chew the fat and renew old friendships.

In the casting contest, those of us who use the flyrod only rarely quickly figured out the fact Harold had tossed in a "ringer." The Florida Flyrod Club's president, Ed Staley, took honors in both distance and accuracy despite a wind that threatened to send the lake's water up and over the Herbert Hoover Dike.

My drawing paired me with Bill Miller, outdoor editor of the Ft. Myers News-Press. And our first day found us in, for me, the home waters of Belle Glade.

My morning trip was guided by Hershel Snider and sponsored by J-Mark Fish Camp. We ran down the river canal where Hershel said a tournament produced record numbers and sizes of bass but the wind was so bad we couldn't fish the cut he pointed out.

With a flyrod, we were limited much more than with other tackle so the next stop was in the Stein canal. And never have I enjoyed a morning or an afternoon more with the long rod.

Bluegills were all over that canal. Plus they were virtually all big and full of fight. Hershel finally urged me to stop fishing for the 'gills and go after bass.

Hershel knew bluegills and other panfish only counted a point apiece but with bass, the points doubled. He had already figured out that one five pounder would earn enough points for six limits of panfish and as my good guide should, told me to catch a few.

I tried. And I did catch a few that took a while—streamer to be a baby shad. But it was those bluegills that I was having more fun with.

In the afternoon I fished with Bill Brewer of Slim's Fish Camp and we went back to the same canal. It didn't take long to limit out on bluegills and we spent the rest of the day searching for elusive bass.

However, Miller and Snider had position on us and Bill's two good bass evened the score.

Monday night we were wined and dined and treated to a slide show at the Brighton Indian Reservation. The catfish program there is progressing and the fish fresh from the ponds taste mighty good.

Tuesday morning, the Buckhead jinx started. The bass refused to strike. So did the bream. We both worked hard and the three hits I missed were the telling difference. At morning's end, we had only a lone bluegill and a small bass to show for our effort.

Tuesday afternoon, same thing. Loren Wilson guided me to a canal where everybody else had caught scads of fish. But not me. In the first hour I managed nine bluegills and a bass. And that was it.

Tuesday night we dined at Big Bass Lodge in Lakesport, now under new ownership. The Tidwell family of Immokalee have moved up to the big city on the shore and set about improving the camp and fishing operations.

They feed good, too. And speaking of food, I hear Caloosa Lodge is also operating under new owners and the restaurant has a sit-down liquor license.

Wednesday morning Glen

Hunter of Twin Palms in Lakesport tried his best to break my jinx. And in fact, we didn't fare too badly. Though we were out for bass, we managed a couple of the largemouths to go with the largemouths that struck, but reluctantly so.

And Wednesday afternoon it was back to Buckhead and a meeting with disaster. Harry Thomas was the guide for Buckhead Marina and Harry was in the lead for guiding honors by a whopping 150 points.

We set out in fine fettle. But when the fish started hitting, I somehow managed to stop catching. Fish after fish after fish struck the popper I was using. And fish after fish escaped unharmed.

I tried everything. I struck fast, I struck slow, I struck every which way but still couldn't hook a fish. As the day grew longer Harry began to wonder about that big lead of his.

With the contest over and dinner being served by the kind ladies of the Buckhead Ridge Fire Department Auxiliary, I discovered Bill Brown's big five pound, five ounce bass caught with Hershel Snider as the guide was enough to put him into second place and Hershel into first. By four points. Four lousy little bluegills.

But like Harry said, "That's fishing." Only some days are better than others. And some fishing holes more productive and some fishermen better able to catch fish.

THE BEST GUIDE during the Thlathlo Tumka flyfishing tournament was Herschel Snyder, who works out of J-Mark Fish Camp and is shown receiving the plaque from Harold DeTar, director of the tournament.

MEET THE PROS
Brian Conrad-Shop Manager, Gene Redd-General Manager, and Romney Harrison-Parts Manager
Bennies Auto Parts had its beginning in 1972 when the name was changed from Bennies Auto Supply and Vernon Jones took over as owner.
Bennies Auto Parts is a NAPA (National Automotive Parts Association) representative. The NAPA stores offer over 100,000 products available to its customers. They are dedicated to maintaining a consistently high standard of quality in the face of a constantly changing technology. NAPA Manufacturers are quite simply, the best in the business. Many NAPA products are better than original equipment parts. They are designed, engineered, and tested to meet this high standard. Nobody does it better - that's what the NAPA name means.
The Gold Hat you've seen so much of is a symbol identified with quality and the NAPA name.
NAPA salespeople believe that you, the customer, are the most important people. And because of this the customer knows he's dealing with a trained professional and can leave the store feeling reassured and confident in the NAPA name and product.
Bennies Auto Parts has a new General Manager, Gene Redd. He is there to serve you with professional know how along with Parts Manager Romney Harrison and Brian Conrad, Shop Manager.
At the NAPA Store, customer service is a full-time job. Because, after all customers are the most important people.

Lady Raiders third in state

SHELIA NIX — The Glades Central girls track team set two school records and scored 26 points Friday to earn third place at the state track meet, the best finish the girls have ever made at a state meet, according to Coach Jay Seider.

The Lady Raiders finished behind first place Ft. Pierce, with 39 points, and Ocala Vanguard with 36 points.

Shelia Nix scored twice for the team, winning a first place in the shot put and a fifth place in the discus, but Carmen Crawford racked up points in three events, winning second place in the 100 yard dash and third place in the 220 and the long jump.

Miss Nix came within four inches of breaking the state record in the shot put when she heaved the iron ball 44' 3/4". The junior had already won the event on her second throw, Seider said, which was for 42' 5/4". "and she was loose and made the put real nice on her third throw," Miss Nix picked up more points when she hurled the discus 119' 0", her best throw of the year. The throw was good for fifth place.

Miss Crawford sprinted 100 yards in 11.6 seconds, Seider said, to take second place in the event. She was clocked in the 220 yard dash in 26.1 seconds, good enough for a third. She also won third place in the long jump, leaping 17' 5".

"Between the two of them," Seider said, "they got 20 points for us."

Cynthia Harrell also scored in two events, earning a fifth place in the high jump when she cleared the bar at 5' 0" and sixth place in the 440 yard dash with a time of 51.1 seconds.

Another school record was set in the mile relay when Shelia Ashby, Sophie Dulles, Carla Redwood and Cynthia Harrell teamed up to win their heat in 4:08, their best time ever. Seider said the heat was a slow one though, and although they beat the next best team by 20 yards, it was only good enough for fifth place.

The 440 relay team also won its heat, Seider said, but it was a slow one and the team earned no points, coming in 52 seconds to be behind third place. "I think they would've finished in the running," he said, "if they'd been running in a faster heat."

"Anyone who is bitten by an alligator should consult a physician immediately."

"By affording them the respect they deserve, we can hopefully keep conflicts between alligators and people to a minimum."

Egbert said. Alligators are officially classified as a threatened species by the federal government and are protected by both state and federal law.

Census Bureau canvasses for dual job holders

How many workers hold more than one job? How many are working overtime and what is their overtime pay? What are workers' usual hours on the job?

Information in response to these questions will be collected during the week of May 19 to 24 from a sample of households in the Glades area.

The questions are in addition to those asked in monthly surveys on employment and unemployment conducted by the Bureau for the U. S. Dept. of Labor, according to the Bureau's regional office in Atlanta.

Households in this area are part of the sample of 84,000 across the country, scientifically selected to represent a cross-section of all U. S. households, a Bureau release states.

Interviewers in the Glades area are Mrs. Selma Levitt, Mrs. Lois Robinson and Mrs. Nancy Davis.

Information supplied by individuals participating in the survey is kept strictly confidential by law and results are used only to compile statistical totals, Census Bureau officials note.

Forestry camp opens for young people

Florida Division of Forestry is again offering to area youngsters its Summer Environmental Program.

In addition to camping and canoeing, the program will concentrate on educating students about the forest ecosystem.

The camps are located at the north of Tampa, and at Blackwater River State Forest, outside of Pensacola. Camp sessions are one week long, and will be offered in the weeks between June 15 through August 17. The cost of the program is $60 which covers all necessities. It is open to youngsters in the seventh through eleventh grades.

For more information contact Ed Isenhour, Palm Beach County Forester, 2500 Palm Beach Lakes Boulevard, Suite 200, West Palm Beach 33409; or call (805) 688-9450.

Conservation camp has openings

While ample applications have been received for most of the staff positions for the Everglades Youth Camp this year, two key openings are vacant.

"We need a nurse," said Lt. Evan Truettner, camp director, "and while we have an application from a cook, we'd like to interview a few other prospects."

The Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission operates two conservation oriented camps for boys and girls aged 8-14 each summer. One camp is located near Ocala and the other near West Palm Beach.

In seeking a cook and nurse, Truettner said, these positions are the highest paid on the staff because of the expertise required.

"The cook will be responsible for preparing three nutritionally balanced meals each day for the staff and campers, while the nurse will be on call 24 hours a day during the sessions," he said.

For more information, prospective cooks or nurses are urged to call the Commission number, 1-800-432-2046.

Sessions this year begin on June 15 and continue weekly through August 2. Staffers live at the camp and are paid for their services, and money is not the primary motive for most of the applications received thus far.

"Our applicants for roomkeepers and instructors come mainly from people who just want to be outdoors and who wish to teach youngsters to enjoy nature," said Truettner.

Campers will attend classes in such subjects as nature appreciation, wildlife management, wild food gathering, firearms safety, fishing, swimming, canoeing and ecology. They'll even have a chance to listen to birds running at night.

"It'll be a rewarding experience," Truettner assures any parent interested in sending youngsters to camp. Weekly sessions are just $60 and include all classes, food and lodging. For in cabins situated around a lake.

Registrations for campers are limited to 100 at the Everglades Youth Camp and 120 in Ocala.

For more information or registration forms, parents may call the Commission's Everglades Region office in West Palm Beach at (305) 688-0078 or dial toll free at 1-800-432-2046.

Springtime means gator movement

TALLAHASSEE — The alligator is not only synonymous with Florida but is also one of its oldest residents.

With the coming of spring, human residents will be seeing more of these ancient reptiles, especially in southern Florida.

We suggest that residents report the presence of any alligator to our nearest Commission Office if necessary develop," said Egbert.

"Most especially, do not attempt to feed alligators," Egbert said. "Once an alligator has been fed it may lose its fear of people and may then become dangerous. In addition, feeding is now prohibited by state statute and is punishable by a fine."

"Any alligator bite, no matter how seemingly minor, can pose a risk of serious infection," he said.

"With the warming air and water temperatures, alligators are now resuming activity," said Dr. Allen L. Egbert, Assistant Director, Wildlife Division, Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission. "Courtship and mating are the most important factors in these increased movements."

"Alligators are most active now and will move their restless bodies during the March through May period, apparently because they are seeking mates," he said.

Despite the danger, alligator encounters during this period as well because the adult males are intolerant of all but adult females during the breeding season and force younger animals to seek new waters.

As Florida's population continues to expand, the alligator's natural living space has shrunk, bringing them into increased contacts with humans. "Just because a person sees an alligator doesn't necessarily mean it is a problem," he said. "Alligators fear feet or smaller usually don't pose a threat to humans or pets and the Commission doesn't remove them." Even larger animals may not pose a threat depending on circumstances.

"People can be severely injured attempting to feed with an alligator, which turns up on their property."

"Just because a person sees an alligator doesn't necessarily mean it is a problem," he said. "Alligators fear feet or smaller usually don't pose a threat to humans or pets and the Commission doesn't remove them." Even larger animals may not pose a threat depending on circumstances.

"People can be severely injured attempting to feed with an alligator, which turns up on their property."

With the coming of spring, human residents will be seeing more of these ancient reptiles, especially in southern Florida.

With the warming air and water temperatures, alligators are now resuming activity," said Dr. Allen L. Egbert, Assistant Director, Wildlife Division, Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission. "Courtship and mating are the most important factors in these increased movements."

"Alligators are most active now and will move their restless bodies during the March through May period, apparently because they are seeking mates," he said.

Despite the danger, alligator encounters during this period as well because the adult males are intolerant of all but adult females during the breeding season and force younger animals to seek new waters.

The Red Cross Youth Volunteers Hospital helping hands

Starla Bullock and Eddie Mikorsky display the insignia that identify the Red Cross Youth Volunteers.

Ann Fowler assists "patient" Anthony Reynolds into a wheelchair held by Eddie Mikorsky, practice for one of the jobs they will be asked to assist with.

Staff photos by Ailsa Dewing

The hours are long and filled with boredom and frustration for convalescing hospital patients. A lonesome child wishes there was someone to read a story or play a game with. A grandmother wishes she could get up to water the flowering plant her children sent - or ask someone to do it for her. Others would enjoy a few minutes of conversation to break the monotony or another magazine to read - if only somebody had the time...

Some people do have the time. They are the teenagers who have joined the American Red Cross Youth Volunteers. At Glades General Hospital in Belle Glade and Everglades Memorial in Pahokee, you'll see them - the girls in their blue and white striped pinafores and boys in navy trousers and white shirts - fetching and carrying for patients and staff members and doing dozens of other acts of kindness.

Each volunteer wears a patch to show that he or she is a member of the Red Cross group. Some also wear caps with the Red Cross emblem to indicate they have completed 20 hours of service.

The tasks they perform around the hospital are visible to all. What is not visible is the training and preparation the young people undergo beforehand. Like airline stewards, they are ready to handle emergencies that possibly will never arise.

This month eight more Glades area youths between the ages of 13 and 18 volunteered to serve in the hospitals. And even before their training began they were given a preliminary assignment to read: to read the first four chapters of the Red Cross "Home Nursing Students Manual."

"Not all people are geared to work in hospitals," explains Phyllis Ryan, Red Cross youth director. The manual provides basic lessons in what caring for the bed-ridden involves.

Although the young volunteers will at no time be expected or permitted to provide any medical services for patients, they could find themselves faced with an emergency situation, or be the nearest person at hand when a nurse or orderly suddenly needs assistance in dealing with a patient.

So the prospective volunteers also spent nine hours in Cardio-Pulmonary Resuscitation training, receiving instruction in giving mouth-to-mouth resuscitation to become certified in CPR.

Some youth volunteers also take the Red Cross first aid course, an eight-hour training session which earns them three-year certificates.

"Both are valuable skills to have and are the same as those taught to nurses, paramedics, and other health-care specialists as part of their training," explains Miss Ryan.

The final training session for the eight new recruits was an eight-hour orientation given at Glades General to familiarize them with hospital routines and to give them hands-on experience in such areas as maneuvering wheelchairs and bed-making.

Also, to become well-versed in the do's and don't's as

The Finishing touch to the volunteers' uniforms is yet to come when they are capped after 20 hours of service. Kelly Bennett gives Andrea Turbeville a chance to see what it will look like.

Today I find myself angrier than I can remember being for a long time. This morning when asked did I make it the entire distance in the March of Dimes walk-a-thon I proudly was able to say yes, I did.

Then I find that a few people who haven't the right to claim so, are telling some poor gullible sponsors that yes, they also finished the co's. And they have the check-point stamps to prove it.

Seems Ross Ruiz is alive and well in Belle Glade, folks. Ross Ruiz, for you folks who don't remember, is the young woman who claimed to have run the entire distance in the Boston Marathon only to have the title taken away from her when it was discovered that she crossed the finish line, but didn't run the entire race.

When I heard this morning that some people, one of whom I wouldn't have believed it of, had cheated on the walk-a-thon, I was flabbergasted.

Using the excuse that they had appointments they had to make, they caught rides between the checkpoints, got their cards stamped, and proceeded to the next stop. When I trudged wearily into the last,

FROM THE GRAPEVINE

By BRENDA BUNTING

checkpoint, there they sat, eating their hot dogs and drinking their cokes. They managed to find time for that.

Today, I am angry for the little six-year-old boy who woke up Saturday morning with a 100-degree temperature insisting on walking in the walk-a-thon because he had promised the little girl. (The little girl being Erin Albertson, Palm Beach County's March of Dimes Foundation's Poster Child.)

I am angry for my two-sons who finished the walk and went home and sterilized a needle to break the blisters on their feet. And for my sister-in-law who finished the walk in pain and with a beet-red face due to her high blood pressure.

I feel anger for the sponsors who will donate money to a very worthy cause for a very unworthy couple of walkers.

I too had an appointment that I had to make. I had a puppy with a broken leg at the veterinarian's which had to be picked up by noon or it meant an extra 32 miles round trip to go back to her office later in the evening during feeding time to get my dog. So I walked as fast as was humanly possible for me and hoped that I could make it in time. Luckily, I did.

I remember on the last stretch the good feeling of knowing I was going to make it and sing the song "Feelin' Good, About Yourself," out of pure joy and relief.

Some people have nothing good to feel about, and if they do, then that speaks for itself.

volunteers in a hospital.

Among the forbidden activities are accepting gifts or money from patients, agreeing to witness the signing of wills, supplying patients with food, drink or cigarettes without permission from the nurse in charge, discussing a patient's illness with anyone or giving medication.

The tasks volunteers are asked to perform provide valuable assistance to staff and patients alike: helping nurses with patients in wheelchairs, passing out food trays and filling water jugs, visiting with patients, writing letters for them and making phone calls, playing two-handed games and reading aloud, making cheerful small talk and listening — "lots of listening." — volunteers are told, because many patients love to talk about their hobbies, their children, and their past experiences.

As the final step in becoming hospital volunteers, the young men and women purchased their uniforms and caps and their Red Cross Youth Volunteer insignia. The badge and uniform they will wear from the beginning during their two or four-tours of duty.

They'll don their caps in August during capping ceremonies marking 20 hours of service.

Most of the kids say they volunteered because they like helping people and want to work in a hospital. "I want to be a nurse and consider the experience they'll get as "providing an early start."

Creative arts contest

Poets, writers, artists, composers and musicians are being invited to compete for awards offered by the Florida Arts Gazette.

In the third annual Gazette poetry contest, poets will compete for $135 in cash prizes for writing the best poem having the arts as its theme.

Short stories of 2,000 words or less will be considered for $35 in prizes in the "Florida Writers 80" category, the first annual Gazette fiction contest.

Contestants must be Florida residents, according to contest rules, and winning entries will be published in the July issue of the Florida Arts Gazette.

In the art and music divisions, being co-sponsored by the City of Wilton Manors, participants will compete at the Wilton Manors Independence Day Festival of the Arts, July 4-5.

A two-day juried art show and sale will offer over $1,000 in prize money.

A minimum $600 will be awarded top entries in the composer/musician competition for all types of music. A 20-hour program of live original music will be included in the outdoor festival.

For information on all competitions, write Florida Arts Gazette, PO Box 397, Himmelsheim Village, Ft. Lauderdale 33302.

Greater access planned for Jupiter Beach

Commissioners have approved variances to the county's setback ordinance that permit the construction of three dune walkovers at Jupiter Beach Park.

The park is located just south of the inlet and north of Carlin Park. In its resolution, the commission noted the variance will have no adverse effect on beach erosion control, hurricane protection, coastal flood control and shoreline and offshore rehabilitation.

Fluid milk and cream are the most consumed foods in the U.S. — 291.2 pounds per capita.

Study club installation

BELLE GLADE — Installation of new officers highlighted the last meeting of the season for the Belle Glade Garden Study Club.

Hostess for the luncheon meeting was Mrs. Joan Thompson, outgoing president, with Mrs. Edith Van Landingham serving as installing officer.

A report of the recent state convention was given by Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Theresa Lutz, both of whom attended the sessions held in Orlando.

Mrs. Thompson also presented certificates to two members, Mrs. Bee Wood and Mrs. Frances Bull, for their achievement in membership recruitment.

Officers who will head the club during the coming year are Mrs. Nancy Creech, president; Mrs. Donna Bradshaw, vice president; Mrs. Sue Murphy, secretary; and Mrs. Lutz, treasurer.

Club meetings are now recessed until September.

GARDEN STUDY CLUB members installed new officers for the coming year at a luncheon meeting Friday. Heading the Belle Glade group's activities in the fall will be, seated, Nancy Creech, president, and Sue Murphy, secretary; standing, Donna Bradshaw, vice president and program chairman; and Theresa Lutz, treasurer.

DISTRICT BPW members have elected Maureen McNulty of the Pahokee Business & Professional Women as their new assistant director. A former member of the district membership committee, Ms. McNulty is a past president of the Pahokee group and a teacher at the Canal Point Elementary School.

Woman's Club install Friday

BELLE GLADE — Mrs. Clyde Parrish will be installed as president of the Woman's Club at a 12:30 p.m. luncheon Friday in the Glades Guard House conference room.

Other officers to be seated for the 1980-81 year are: 1st vice president, Mrs. Donald L. Williams; 2nd vice president, Mrs. Jerry Lohman; recording secretary, Mrs. Louise Zumpf; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Lee Shaw; and treasurer, Mrs. Iz Nachman.

... and whatnot by Ailsa Dewing

On May 27 they're planning to roast Pahokee's Mayor Duncan Padgett at a dinner in the Prince Theatre.

It's fitting. When the theater's steering committee was considering what type of event would be an opening night crowd pleaser, His Honor was all for a dinner theater affair. He kind of fancied sitting down to dinner and watching a stage show with everybody gussied up for a night out.

And now he's going to get it. In more ways than one, we daresay. The mayor (can anybody imagine calling Duncan Padgett anything but Mayor?) has a puckish sense of humor. There must be a whole cast of characters waiting in the wings, ready to come on stage and relate anecdotes on the subject of Duncan Padgett.

For example, we once asked him during an interview what plans he had for retirement and his answer took us down the garden path—all the way to the bottom of the garden where the fairies grow.

He planned to go into bank robbing with a friend, he told us with straight face. He calculated that sentences for such crimes are so light nowadays that it was good work to get into.

Weeks later he told us his plans had changed. His business partner hadn't gotten the parole he'd expected.

Nola Nagler, named as one recipient of the Distinguished Community Service award at the Pahokee Chamber of Commerce dinner, drew a laugh from the

Ray Peterson to present sacred concert

BELLE GLADE — Ray Peterson, winner of seven gold records whose earnings once topped $70 million as a popular vocalist, will present a program of sacred music at 7:30 p.m. Sunday at the Community United Methodist Church.

After recording such hits as "Fever," "Tell Laura I Love Her," and "Goodnight My Love," Peterson turned to a music ministry, which he describes as a turning point in his life.

"The Lord has planted me in His soil to bloom in seed faith from a man of little faith to a man of great faith, and then ultimately to perfect faith, as a servant to do the will of the Father," explains Peterson.

Peterson now dedicated his music to serving and praising the Lord.

A BEAUTIFICATION AWARD was presented Monday to the Apostolic Church of Jesus Christ for improvements and beautification of the church building and recreational grounds. Accepting the award, in center, was J. P. Feld. Making the presentation were Belle Glade Beautification Committee President S. M. McAllister and member Ladey Frank.

Taking it From the Top

By REV. DAVID T. EVANS
Everglades Presbyterian Church

Last Saturday it was your columnist's privilege to give the invocation at the ground breaking of the Cultural Arts Center at Glades Campus of Palm Beach Junior College. This structure will add much to the community in looks as well as culture.

On the way back to the church it was noticed on South Main the improvements made in Belle Glade in the last two years. The hospital has been repainted and the old and new additions blend into one impressive structure.

The Bank of Pahokee building is practical and architecturally pleasing to the eye. Burger King and its landscaping takes the place of an unkempt grazing area. The new Chamber of Commerce building blends in with the remodeled library and the rest of the municipal complex. An insurance building has been remodeled and an automobile dealership repainted. Burger World, empty for years, will now be a Kentucky Fried Chicken adding a thriving new addition to our busy thoroughfare.

Then north of the canal are many beautiful homes. Lawns are cut and shrubbery trimmed, but in the midst of these green lawns are piles of trash. Not cuttings and branches, but trash. What a shame.

Our community is growing and building, but we are allowing trash to deface and ruin the natural and manmade beauty.

Let's bag our trash and not throw cans, papers, etc., which will blow away before they can be picked up.

One adult education class said, "Smash the trash and shame the litterbug."

Don't be a shameful litterbug but be a proud non-litterer. Put the trash in a container or carry it home and put it in your container. After all it's yours.

The earth was given to man to take care of. Let's keep it green and not cover it with litter.

Churchmen go to Korea

BELLE GLADE — The Rev. Robert Atkins and George Goforth, pastor and lay member of the First Baptist Church in Belle Glade, are leaving Sunday to take part in three weeks of revivals in Korea as part of a combined project of the Florida Baptist Convention and the Korean Baptist Convention.

Rev. Atkins said he and Goforth will fly into Seoul, take part in a rally there next Wednesday, then leave Thursday to take part in a revival in Tae Jon.

"The project has three segments," Rev. Atkins said. "We're part of Team A and we'll be there from May 18 until June 7. Then there's another team, Team B, who'll be there for two weeks, starting June 1.

"There'll be more than 200 ministers, musicians and lay witnesses, all told," he said.

He said interpreters will be provided at the revivals but the visitors will also be provided with booklets and he said he believes the group could function occasionally without interpreters.

Picture Pretty

Pretty as a picture, isn't she? She looks "downright" angelic. Yet, five minutes from now, she may be a little bundle of fury!

Children change faster than the wind. They haven't learned to hide their feelings. But while grown-ups may present a better camouflage to the world, there are few of us without inner conflicts. And these conflicts can be serious.

It would be a lonely world if we had to keep all our problems to ourselves.

We don't. God never intended that we should have to solve all our difficulties single-handed. Remember, He established His church on earth for us. In that Church we will find understanding fellowship, and the faith to work out our own destinies.

Take your problems to Church. Pray that you will find a solution to them. Talk them over with your minister. And what seems a maze today may become a straight road tomorrow.

Historians re-elect

Dr. Cecil Conley has been elected to a second term as president of the Glades Historical Society.

Election of officers was held at the society's last meeting of the season. Other officers who will lead the organization when it reconvenes in the fall are: Lisa Humphries, vice president; Clara Bedsole, recording secretary; Gloria Swager, corresponding secretary; and Frank Doley, who was re-elected treasurer.

Two new board members, Marion Blech and Buster Ingram, will join the present directors, Homer Hand, A.R. Harrington, David Motes and Donald Tanner.

During the business session, members heard a review from "The Cowman" on the book recently published by Ralph Kidder, "From Cattle to Cane" which the historical society is distributing. The book may be purchased locally at the Chamber of Commerce, Holiday Inn, Averill's, Pioneer Motors and the Belle Glade Municipal Library.

The next meeting of the historical society is scheduled in September.

audience when she began her acceptance speech by saying it had been a long time since she'd stood before such a large group without asking them for money.

Mrs. Nagler's many civic contributions were recognized by the award but none more than her recent success at raising the more than $25,000 needed to send the Pahokee High School band to New Orleans.

We offer the following candidate for the title of "Sweet Sixteen and Never Been Kissed": She is 15-year-old Mariene Graham of Ocean Springs, Miss., who recently won the women's distance championship in the National Tobacco Spitting contest.

Occasionally there are grasses in the lawn that, because of shade or other factors, are not well suited for grass and in these areas attractive ground covers can be used.

Ground cover can play an important part in complementing a landscape and the large selection of ground covers available makes possible a very effective display of either flowers or foliage, depending on what you prefer.

Most ground covers are quite low growing, generally staying below two feet at maturity, or can be kept easily maintained to a low height. Most are fairly dense so that weed growth is inhibited to a large degree and often times they are vining in nature making them excellent for climbing over rocks or uneven terrain.

For partially shaded areas the following ground covers are excellent: English ivy, which is vining in nature and only grows to a few inches in height; wandering jew, a very succulent vine with attractive maroon and silver striped foliage; liriope, a lily-like grass that makes an excellent ground cover and produces small lavender blooms in the spring; various types of ferns; and wedelia, a vining ground cover with one-inch bright yellow flowers.

In sunnier locations purple queen or oyster plants are beautiful. Both have attractive foliage but are somewhat brittle and do not take foot traffic. Purslane, a relative of portulaca, gives brilliant color almost constantly and comes in a variety of colors.

Annuals, too, are excellent for ground cover beds when though they have to be replaced periodically. Begonias, petunias, celosia, ageratum, salvia and many others can be used.

Most ground covers have similar requirements as to watering and fertilizing. Watering is not needed more than once or twice a week except during periods of extended drought. Mulching beds before putting in a ground cover will all but eliminate weed problems and also conserve water so that you will have to water even less frequently.

Cold tolerance varies widely depending on the type plant involved as does salt tolerance. Before selecting ground covers for salt or cold tolerance ask someone about the particular one you like before putting a lot of money into a plant that would not grow in a certain situation.

There are few pest problems with most types of ground covers. Those that do occur are not of major importance and can be controlled with most of the general purpose pesticides commonly used on ornamentals.
